1 Programme overview

The purpose of awarding grant funding is to support partners to deliver the Big Bike Revival in the form of local events, that meet the programme’s aims and objectives. Big Bike Revival events are designed to inspire a change in cycling behaviour for the target audience of people who do not currently cycle, and the evidenced fix-learn-ride model enables this to happen. Each roll-out period might have a particular focus (see section 2 – Programme Focus) but delivery partners are expected to shape the delivery based on a combination of the model’s three elements. All events must be free to beneficiaries at the point of access.

Fix-learn-ride model

Based on rigorous evidence and validated behaviour change techniques the model informs applicants about the types of events that work best to inspire the target audience. Partners are expected to deliver events that focus on the three core elements of fixing bikes, teaching skills and leading rides. This means fixing unused or broken bikes so they are safe to ride, provide learning sessions such as maintenance workshops or cycle training to upskill people, or offer led rides on local routes to build cyclists confidence. These event types are documented in more detail in the event guides and include relevant tools, tips, procedures, and methods to apply at point of delivery. Briefly the three event types are:

Fix events: Provide basic services to repair broken bikes and essential checks to ensure bikes are safe to ride.

Learn events: Provide instruction so beneficiaries learn some basic knowledge to maintain their own bike or cycle skills training, so people learn can how to ride a bike with confidence.

Ride events: Provide low mileage led rides for people to practise cycling locally and learn new routes in a social environment.

Target audience

Applicants must demonstrate that they will reach and inspire people who do not currently cycle; people who are either complete beginners or returner cyclists who have been out the saddle for many years. This means going beyond any regular activity being delivered to reach new people who are not currently engaged. Events must be open to all and partners should engage; people in need in terms of economic, social or health deprivation; people underrepresented in cycling; people who face challenges or perceived barriers to cycling. This includes, but is not limited to:

- Women
- People on low incomes
- People who identify as belonging to an ethnic minority group
- People not in work
- People not meeting physical activity guidelines
- People with perceived barriers to cycling
Aims & Objectives

Aim:
To make cycling accessible to all and unlock the potential for people who do not currently cycle but would consider either starting or returning to cycling. This supports the Department for Transport’s vision of achieving a step-change in cycling levels.

Objectives:

- Inspire and encourage the substantial proportion of the population who do not cycle, to start cycling.
- Increase the number of people that cycle by addressing the fact that a high proportion of adults in England own bikes (42%) but are not making use of them.
- Increase the number of trips made by bike by addressing the fact that adults in Britain appear to be aware of cycling and its potential for shorter journeys but have safety concerns about using it as a form of travel.
- To improve the perception of cycling safety by providing opportunities for people to access supported cycling activities, training on how to cycle safely and how to keep bikes in safe working order.

Limitations

The programme is somewhat restricted by funding obligations. This means there are limitations on the types of activity that can be delivered and who can be engaged. These limitations include but are not restricted too:

Children only activities
To safeguarding all young people under 18 years old and sustain levels of cycling in children, the funding can be awarded to deliver family cycling that includes parents, responsible adults, caregivers over 18 or guardians. It cannot however be awarded to deliver events for the sole purpose of engaging children under 18 years.

Regular activity
It is the intention that the funding is used to engage and reach the target audience through delivering events that go beyond any regular activity that a partner organisation consistently offers. The funding therefore cannot be awarded to support or sustain any regular and organised activity that occurs as part of a consistent allotted time.

Offering a series of events
Whereby it is reasonable to assume that the target audience require additional activities and support to sustain regular cycling, Big Bike Revival events must be focused on offering one-off activities. Partners interested in offering a series of events and activities to a repeat audience are encouraged to express interest to the team about joining Cycling UKs Community Cycle Club network.
Limitations (cont’d)

Social events
It is recognised that cycling is a social activity and promoting a friendly environment is recommended to include at events within reason and at discretion. The funding however cannot be awarded to deliver events that focus solely on promoting a social environment whereby encouraging people to cycle for local journeys becomes less than the primary focus.

Mass participation events
Big Bike Revival events are focused on providing cycling activities that address the local need and are delivered at community level by partners embedded in those environments. The numbers of people attending events are therefore typically low so individual needs and perceived barriers can be addressed. Plans to deliver large or mass participation events are therefore unsuitable for Big Bike Revival funding.

Motorised travel
One of the programmes objectives is to transform short car journeys into cycling ones. To achieve this means upskilling people with the knowledge of how to cycle confidently on local routes whilst learning how to negotiate perceived barriers and challenges. This means that motorised travel outside of the local area with the aim of taking beneficiaries cycling elsewhere cannot be considered for funding.

Types of cycling
Because the programme is aimed at increasing active travel through encouraging more utility and commuter cycling, there are limitations around offering events that focus on specific types of cycling. One example of this might be mountain bike rides in a park that are not part of a local community. If you are unsure whether you can include specific types of cycling in you plan, please contact the team to discuss.

2 Programme focus in 2022

Following the success of Winter Programme 2021/22 we are continuing to see an increase in demand for learn and led-ride events. We are therefore focusing on predominantly delivering learning and riding opportunities from 2 May 2022 through until 31 October 2022.

If you would like to offer these event types, join us, and apply to deliver the programme today. To help you prepare your delivery plan, consult our quick event guides. These guides explain the basic outline of each event type including tips and tricks on how to inspire and sustain a change in cycling behaviour.

To support partners to develop their services, grant funding can be used to purchase equipment to expand delivery, fund venues to host learning sessions and employ instructors to lead local rides. See section 5 for details on eligible costs and expenditure.
