1. Introduction

Cycling UK¹ is a national membership charity championing cycling since 1978. It aims to promote all forms of cycling and protect the interests of existing and potential cyclists as well as inspire people of all ages, backgrounds and abilities to discover the joys of cycling. Cycling UK's vision is of a healthier, happier and cleaner world because more people cycle for enjoyment, health benefits and environmental reasons. By encouraging more people to join and discover the delights of cycling, Cycling UK aims to make positive lasting changes to people's lives, communities and the wider environment.

It is important to establish clear safeguarding adult procedures that all those involved with Cycling UK understand and follow at all times. Everyone has the right to be protected from harm and this policy sets out the commitment Cycling UK has made to ensure that this right is achieved and maintained.

2. Aim and Scope of this Policy

This Policy aims to ensure all those involved in Cycling UK's activities understand and follow the procedures relating to the reporting of concerns about an adult, and everyone knows where to go for help if they have a concern about an adult.

All adults have the right to be protected from abuse and poor practice under the Equality Act 2010, regardless of their:

- Age
- Disability
- Gender reassignment
- Marriage and civil partnership
- Race
- Religion or belief
- Sex
- Sexual orientation

Best practice in safeguarding means committing to both a legal and moral responsibility to all paid staff, volunteers and visitors. This policy applies to all trustees, board members, staff, volunteers, members, participants and parents (including guardians and carers) involved with Cycling UK activities and events organised by any of its staff or volunteers.

Where Cycling UK is working together with third parties to provide support or programmes in accordance to Cycling UK's charitable objectives, it is important to ensure that there has been communication regarding safeguarding. This policy will apply to any Cycling UK led activities being carried out in conjunction with a third-party provider. The procedures will be followed accordingly, unless a previous decision with a valid reason has been agreed.

3. Policy Statement

Cycling UK is committed to creating and maintaining a safe and positive environment and accepts responsibility to safeguard the welfare of all adults involved with Cycling UK in accordance with the Care Act 2014.

Cycling UK acknowledges its responsibility to keeping everyone safe, both adults and children, enabling them to participate in its activities and have fun doing so. Everyone has a role to play in identifying concerns, sharing information and taking prompt action; the organisation aims to ensure that everyone understands their safeguarding responsibilities by providing appropriate learning opportunities for all staff, volunteers and trustees.

No one should ever experience any type of abuse and Cycling UK will take appropriate action when any concerns are raised by following robust safeguarding procedures.

Cycling UK will:

- ensure robust safeguarding arrangements and procedures are in place and followed by everyone in the organisation;
- follow safe recruitment best practice to prevent the employment/deployment of inappropriate or unsafe individuals to work with adults at risk;
- ensure that confidential, detailed and accurate records of all safeguarding concerns and incidents are kept and stored securely;
- ensure safeguarding concerns are reported and action taken swiftly and efficiently;
- and ensure support is provided to those who raise or disclose safeguarding concerns.

4. Principles

This Policy is based on the following principles as established by the Care Act 2014, which underpins the safeguarding of adults:

- Empowerment: people are supported and encouraged to make their own decisions and feel informed.
- Prevention: it is better to take action before harm occurs.
- Proportionality: the least intrusive response appropriate to the risk presented.
- Protection: support and representation for those in greatest need.
- Partnership: services offer local solutions through working closely with their communities. Communities have a part to play in preventing, detecting and reporting neglect and abuse.
- Accountability: accountability and transparency in delivering safeguarding.

Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland have similar, but slightly differently worded principles, which are set out in Appendix 4.

5. What are Safeguarding Adults, the Wellbeing Principles and Mental Capacity?

Safeguarding is everyone's responsibility; if you have concerns about an adult's safety or wellbeing, you must act on these: do not ignore them. It is important to understand that it is not the person who acts on the concerns' responsibility to decide whether or not an adult has been abused.

Safeguarding means protecting an adult's right to live in safety, free from abuse and neglect. It is about people and organisations working together to prevent and stop both the risks and the experience of abuse or neglect, while at the same time making sure that the adult's wellbeing is promoted including, where appropriate, by having regard to their views, wishes, feelings and beliefs in deciding on any action. Adults sometimes have complex interpersonal relationships and may be ambivalent, unclear or unrealistic about their personal circumstances.

The concept of 'wellbeing' is used throughout both English and Welsh legislation and relates to personal dignity, support and the inclusion of everyone. The 'Wellbeing Principles' for England and Wales can be found at Appendix 5.

Adult safeguarding should always be person-led and outcome focused. The intention is to engage a person to discuss how to best respond to their situation from a safeguarding perspective to enhance their involvement, choice and control in order to improve their quality of life, wellbeing and safety. It is important, where possible, to obtain their view of what they would like to happen, involve them in the process and give consent to share information outside of the organisation where necessary. The adult's views, wishes, feelings and beliefs must be taken into account when decisions about their future are made. This is known as 'Making Safeguarding Personal'.

Capacity means the ability to make a decision about your own life on your own and is sometimes referred to as 'mental capacity'. This can be affected either temporarily or permanently; some people have the capacity to make some simple decisions but not major, say financial ones, for themselves. Appendix 6 provides further guidance on capacity and making decisions.

6. Legislation

England

The legislative framework for safeguarding adults in England is set out in the Care Act 2014. Guidance accompanying the Care Act 2014 is available online and should be referred to for more detailed information.

Wales

In Wales, the Social Services and Well-being (Wales) Act 2014 provides the framework for safeguarding adults. This reforms and integrates social services law and puts adult safeguarding on a statutory footing.

The Whistleblowing Policy sets out the way in which individuals may raise any concerns that they have and how those concerns will be dealt with.

A complaint is when someone tells Cycling UK that they are dissatisfied with something Cycling UK has done (or not done) or the way its staff, members, member groups or volunteers have behaved. The Cycling UK Complaints Policy and Procedure sets out how such complaints should be dealt with.

Where a complainant raises a potential safeguarding issue, it should immediately be referred to the Designated Safeguarding Lead, who will decide whether it should be dealt with under the Safeguarding Policy, rather than the Complaints Policy.

Responding to concerns

There are concerns about the behaviour of a member of staff, volunteer or member towards an adult. These may be suspicions or allegations of poor practice or possible abuse. Complete Cycling UK Safeguarding Report Form and send to Cycling UK Designated Safeguarding Lead (DSL). If concerns occur at an event or facility, this should be done in conjunction with the safeguarding officer.

Is the person in immediate danger or are they injured? Then the emergency services should be contacted as a priority. If you believe a crime has been committed, you should contact the police as soon as possible.

If concerns, allegations of abuse or poor practice are reported, then this must be referred to the group safeguarding officer or the Designated Safeguarding Lead. If the concern relates to one of these two individuals, then the matter should be referred to the Chief Executive Officer of Cycling UK.

When raising the concern, it is best practice to seek the views of the adult involved as to what they would like to happen next and to inform them of the actions that will be taken - it is important that the adult is kept informed about any actions or decisions taken; always consider their needs and wishes. This is how to “make safeguarding personal”.

It is important for staff and volunteers to follow some simple guidelines when responding to concerns. These guidelines are to:

- caring and help the adult concerned to open up;
- let them go at their own pace – allow them to pause and take their time – it may take more than one conversation to hear the full disclosure;
- reflect back and use their language to show that they have been fully understood;
- reassure them that they have done the right thing in telling someone about what has happened to them;
- remember to make safeguarding personal – discuss the concerns with the adult, obtain their view of what they would like to happen, but inform them that it is essential that the DSL is made aware of the concern;
- consent – it is important to ask for consent but inform them that it is essential you will be sharing this information with the DSL as part of our policies and procedures. For further guidance see Appendix 7 below;
- take care to distinguish between fact, opinion, observation or allegation. It is essential the information is accurate;
- make sure they are aware the matter is being taken seriously but it is essential to maintain an unbiased approach – following procedure and treating each case in a fair and transparent manner ensuring everyone gets the help and support necessary; and

- make notes of the information – name, age and dates – to record the concern. If it is inappropriate to make notes at the time, then they should be made as soon as possible after speaking to the adult. It is important to use the language the adult has used to describe the incident/concern. It may be appropriate to fill in the Safeguarding Report Form at the time of the disclosure. If not, do so as soon as possible afterwards.

Reporting concerns

All concerns about an adult should be reported to the group safeguarding officer or the DSL of Cycling UK. Once concerns have been received by the DSL, together with the HR and/or volunteering team, and the relevant line manager, they will investigate to understand the current risk to the adult. This will be done whilst ensuring the utmost confidentiality is maintained and any appropriate safeguards are put in place.

The DSL will consider the concern and report it to the appropriate agency once all the information has been collected. This will be done in conjunction with the adult involved to ensure they are kept fully aware of the process and can ensure their desired outcome is properly communicated.

See Appendix 3 for a flowchart showing the reporting process for dealing with adult at risk concerns.

Recording

It is important that all concerns are recorded – including information about:

- the concern;
- how it was responded to;
- who it was reported to; and
- what the outcome of this report was.

Concerns should be reported on the Cycling UK Safeguarding Report Form that should then be sent by email to the Cycling UK DSL.

All reporting forms and documentation relating to the management of the concern must be retained and stored confidentially for at least 25 years. Individual files may be kept for longer if this is considered appropriate. This must meet the requirements of any data protection legislation currently in force.

Appendix 2 - Cycling UK's Safeguarding Code of Conduct

All staff and volunteers have an obligation to avoid creating distressing situations. Therefore they are expected to follow the Code of Conduct below:

As a Cycling UK staff/volunteer, you must:

- respect everyone as an individual
- provide a good example of acceptable behaviour
- respect everyone's right to privacy
- report any concerns to Cycling UK's DSL
- show understanding when dealing with sensitive issues
- listen to any concerns from anyone, particularly children, may have
- maintain acceptable boundaries and relationships with children. Engaging in sexual behaviour with anyone under the age of 16 is illegal.
- adhere to the organisation's policies, including implementing the Safeguarding & Child Protection Policy

As a Cycling UK staff member or volunteer you must not:

- permit abusive behaviour
- have inappropriate physical or verbal contact with others
- engage in a sexual behaviour with anyone under the age of 18
- make suggestive or inappropriate remarks or actions
- deliberately place yourself or others in a compromising situation

Other adults present

Staff and volunteers should avoid situations where they are alone with a child or adult at risk. This precaution protects all parties by removing the feeling of threat from an insecure participant, and by providing a witness if an accusation of improper behaviour is made. However, there may be occasions where this is not possible and a judgment will have to be made as to what is in the best interests of the child or adult at risk.

Physical contact

Physical contact between an individual and the staff or volunteers should be avoided. There are instances when it is necessary, eg to demonstrate a skill, but such contact should remain impersonal so there is no risk of it being misinterpreted. If contact is necessary the volunteer should always ask permission and advise the individual of the action to be taken.

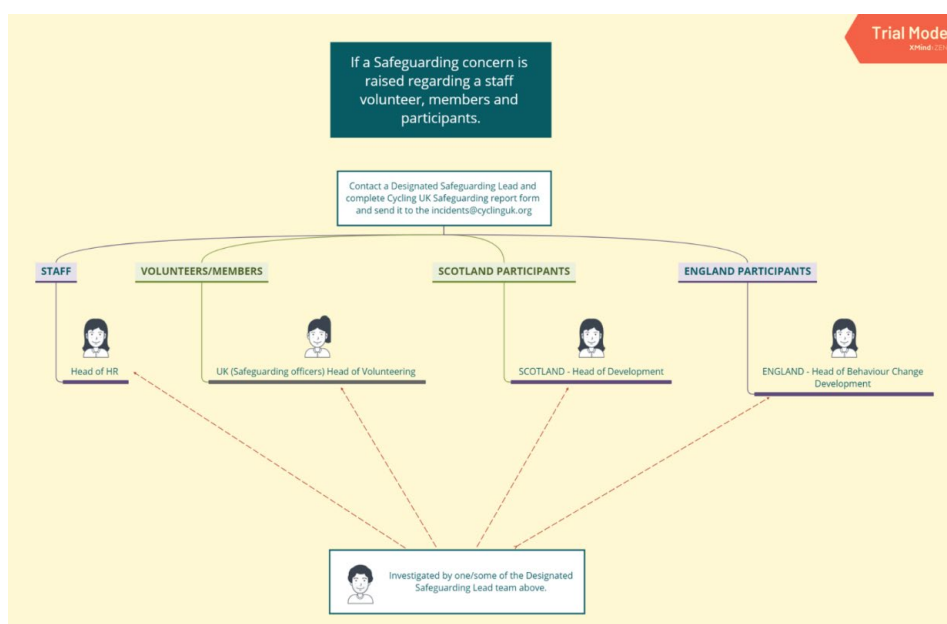

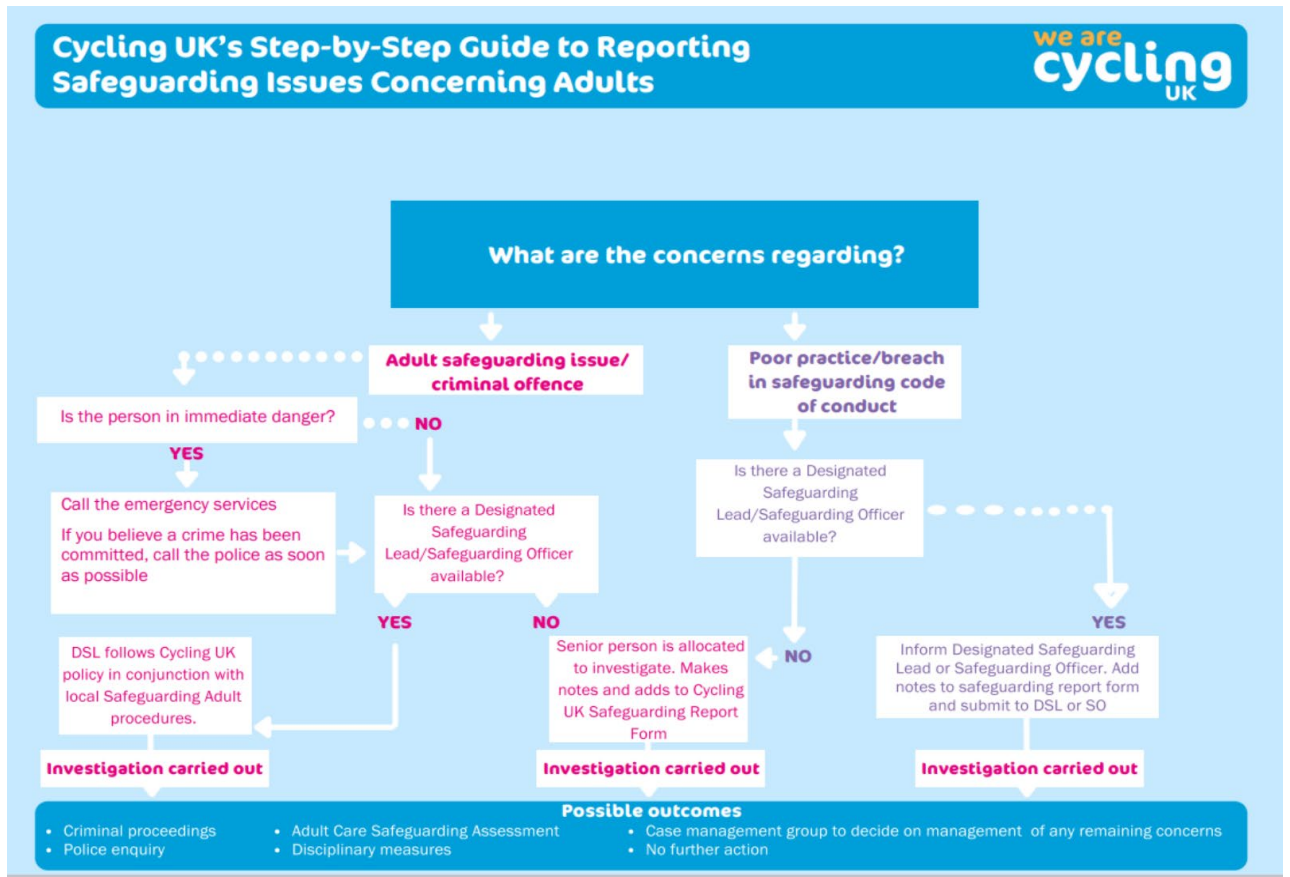

Appropriate language

Care should be taken about what is said, and the way it is said. Staff and volunteers should always avoid saying anything which could be interpreted as being aggressive, suggestive, or contain any form of innuendo.

Creating false impressions

It is important that staff and volunteers do not create a false impression. Words and actions can be misunderstood, and care should be taken to avoid awkward situations. Should such a situation arise, it is essential to handle it with care and consideration to minimise embarrassment to ride leaders, instructors, other volunteers and participants.

Scotland

Adult Support and Protection Act 2007

The Act's principles are:

- The overarching principle underlying Part 1 of the Act is that any intervention in an individual's affairs should provide benefit to the individual and should be the least restrictive option of those that are available which will meet the purpose of the intervention.
- This is supported by a set of guiding principles which, together with the overarching principle, must be taken account of when performing functions under Part 1 of the Act. These are:
 - » The wishes and feelings of the adult at risk (past and present);
 - » The views of other significant individuals, such as the adult's nearest relative; their primary carer, guardian, or attorney; or any other person with an interest in the adult's well-being or property;
 - » The importance of the adult taking an active part in the performance of the function under the Act;
 - » Providing the adult with the relevant information and support to enable them to participate as fully as possible;
 - » the importance of ensuring that the adult is not, without justification, treated less favourably than the way in which any other adult (not being an adult at risk) might be treated in a comparable situation; and
 - » the adult's abilities, background and characteristics (including the adult's age, sex, sexual orientation, religious persuasion, racial origin, ethnic group and cultural and linguistic heritage).

Northern Ireland

Adult Safeguarding Prevention and Protection Partnership 2015

The Act's principles are:

- A Rights-Based Approach – To promote and respect an adult's right to be safe and secure; to freedom from harm and coercion; to equality of treatment; to the protection of the law; to privacy; to confidentiality; and freedom from discrimination.
- An Empowering Approach – To empower adults to make informed choices about their lives, to maximise their opportunities to participate in wider society, to keep themselves safe and free from harm and enabled to manage their own decisions in respect of exposure to risk.
- A Person-Centred Approach – To promote and facilitate full participation of adults in all decisions affecting their lives, taking full account of their views, wishes and feelings and, where appropriate, the views of others who have an interest in his or her safety and well-being.
- A Consent-Driven Approach
 - » To make a presumption that the adult has the ability to give or withhold consent; to make informed choices;
 - » to help inform choice through the provision of information, and the identification of options and alternatives;
 - » to have particular regard to the needs of individuals who require support with communication, advocacy or who lack the capacity to consent; and
 - » intervening in the life of an adult against his or her wishes only in particular circumstances, for very specific purposes and always in accordance with the law. specific purposes and always in accordance with the law.
- A Collaborative Approach –
 - » To acknowledge that adult safeguarding will be most effective when it has the full support of the wider public and of safeguarding partners across the statutory, voluntary, community, independent and faith sectors working together; and is delivered in a way where roles, responsibilities and lines of accountability are clearly defined and understood.
 - » Working in partnership and a person-centred approach will work hand-in-hand.

Appendix 6 - Capacity - Guidance on Making Decisions

England and Wales share the Mental Capacity Act of 2005. Scotland has the Adults With Incapacity (Scotland) Act 2000 and Ireland the Mental Capacity (Northern Ireland) Act 2016. The Acts all apply to people over the age of 16.

The issue of capacity or decision-making is a key one in safeguarding adults across all legislatures.

It is useful to have an overview of the concept of capacity. The ability to make decisions is often taken for granted. But some people are only able to make some decisions, and a small number of people cannot make any decisions. Being unable to make a decision is called “lacking capacity”.

To make a decision a person needs to:

- understand information;
- remember it for long enough;
- think about the information; and
- communicate the decision.

The various legislations set out the principles for working with adults who lack capacity to make decisions. A person’s ability to do this may be affected by things like learning disability, dementia, mental health needs, acquired brain injury and physical ill health.

Good practice states that every individual has the right to make their own decisions and legislation provides the framework for this to happen. The legislations are designed to ensure that people have the support they need to make as many decisions as possible. The legislations also protect people who need family, friends or paid support staff to make decisions for them because they lack capacity to make specific decisions.

Any intervention in the affairs of an adult should:

- benefit the adult;
- take account of the adult’s wishes, so far as these can be ascertained;
- take account of the views of relevant others, as far as it is reasonable and practical to do so; and
- restrict the adult’s freedom as little as possible while still achieving the desired benefit.

An individual’s ability to make decisions can change over the course of a day. Here are some examples that demonstrate how the timing of a question can affect the response:

- a person with epilepsy may not be able to make a decision following a seizure;
- someone who is anxious may not be able to make a decision at that point; or
- a person may not be able to respond as quickly if they have just taken some medication that causes fatigue.

In each of these examples, it may appear as though the person cannot make a decision. But later in the day, presented with the same decision, they may be able to at least be involved or to make an informed and measured decision.

Legislation recognises that capacity is decision-specific, so no one will be labelled as entirely lacking capacity. The legislation also recognises that decisions can be about big life-changing events, such as where to live, but equally about small events, such as what to wear on a cold day.

To help understand this concept further, consider the following five points:

- assume that people are able to make decisions, unless it is shown that they are not. If you have concerns about a person's level of understanding, you should check this with them, and if applicable, with the people supporting them;
- give people as much support as they need to make decisions. Be involved in this – think about the way to communicate or provide information and be aware that they may ask for an opinion;
- people have the right to make unwise decisions. The important thing is that they understand the implications. If they understand the implications, consider how risks might be minimised;
- if someone is not able to make a decision, then the person helping them must only make decisions in their “best interests”. This means that the decision must be what is best for the person, not for anyone else; and
- find the least restrictive way of doing what needs to be done.

Remember:

Do not discriminate or make assumptions about someone's ability to make decisions, and do not pre-empt a best interests decision merely on the basis of a person's age, appearance, condition or behaviour.

As an organisation, when it comes to decision-making, you could be involved in a minor way, or asked to provide more detail. The way information is provided might influence a person's ultimate decision. A person may be receiving support that is not in line with the principles of the legislation - be prepared to address this.

Appendix 7 - Consent and Information Sharing

England and Wales

There are some circumstances when action may need to be taken without an adult's consent. Sometimes an adult at risk may not want someone else to act on the concerns or their disclosure. This may be because they are scared or fearful of the repercussions from such action.

It may also be because they are not aware abuse is taking place, or they have not got the mental capacity to make an informed decision and understand that remaining in their current situation is unsafe.

Sharing information with the right people is central to good practice in safeguarding adults.

Do not keep safeguarding concerns about adults at risk a secret. Explain to the adult that the concern must be passed on to the DSL, as there is a duty of care.

Reassure the adult that they will be fully included in what happens.

It is appropriate to report concerns without an adult's consent when:

- there is reason to believe the adult's health and/or wellbeing will be adversely affected by ongoing harm;
- other people are, or may be, at risk from the person causing harm, including children;
- it is necessary to prevent a crime, or a serious crime has been committed;
- sharing the information could prevent a crime and help to stop abuse;
- the adult may be under duress or being coerced; or
- the alleged abuser has care and support needs and may also be at risk.

Cycling UK employees and volunteers should always share safeguarding concerns in line with this Safeguarding Policy – with the DSL or group safeguarding officer in the first instance, except in emergency situations. If it does not increase the risk to the individual, the employee or volunteer should explain to them that it is their duty to share their concern with the DSL or the group safeguarding officer.

The DSL or safeguarding officer will then consider the situation and plan the actions that need to be taken, in conjunction with the adult at risk and in line with this policy and local safeguarding adults' board policy and procedures.

To make an adult safeguarding referral, you need to call the local safeguarding adults team. This may be part of a MASH (Multi-Agency Safeguarding Hub). A conversation can be had with the safeguarding adults team without disclosing the identity of the person in the first instance. If it is thought that a referral needs to be made to the safeguarding adults team, consent should be sought where possible from the adult at risk.

Individuals may not give their consent to the sharing of safeguarding information with the safeguarding adults team for a number of reasons. Reassurance, appropriate support and revisiting the issues at another time may help to change their view on whether it is best to share information.

If they still do not consent, then their wishes should usually be respected. However, there are circumstances where information can be shared without consent. For example, when the adult does not have the capacity to consent, it is in the public interest because it may affect other people, or a serious crime has been committed. This should always be discussed with the DSL and the local authority safeguarding adults team.

If someone does not want you to share information outside of the organisation, or you do not have consent to share the information, ask yourself the following questions:

- Is the adult placing himself or herself at further risk of harm?
- Is someone else likely to get hurt?
- Has a criminal offence occurred? This includes: theft or burglary of items, physical abuse, sexual abuse, forced to give extra money for lessons (financial abuse) or harassment.
- Is there suspicion that a crime has occurred?

If the answer to any of the questions above is 'yes', then it is possible to share the information without consent and you should do so.

When sharing information, there are seven Golden Rules that should always be followed:

1. Seek advice if in any doubt.
2. Be transparent - The Data Protection Act (DPA) is not a barrier to sharing information but to ensure that personal information is shared appropriately; except in circumstances whereby doing so places the person at significant risk of harm.
3. Consider the public interest - base all decisions to share information on the safety and wellbeing of that person or others who may be affected by their actions.
4. Share with consent where appropriate - where possible, respond to the wishes of those who do not consent to share confidential information. You may still share information without consent, if this is in the public interest.
5. Keep a record - record your decision and reasons to share or not share information.
6. Accurate, necessary, proportionate, relevant and secure - ensure all information shared is accurate, up-to-date, necessary and share with only those who need to have it.
7. Be open and honest - right from the start, be clear with the people we support (and/or their families where needed) what we hold, why we might share it, who might need to know. Try and get informed consent from the beginning where possible.

Appendix 8 - Recruitment Vetting Checks

- Basic DBS check: contains details of any unspent convictions or conditional cautions the applicant has
- Standard DBS check: contains details of any spent or unspent convictions, cautions, reprimands, or warnings the applicant has, as long as they're not protected.
- Enhanced DBS check: contains the same information as a standard check, as well as any relevant information held by the applicant's local police force.

Applying for a DBS check is controlled by the Safeguarding Vulnerable Groups Act 2006 and the Protection of Freedoms Act 2012.

If an individual is barred from working with either vulnerable adults or children (and is therefore on the barred list) it is illegal for them to apply to work in such roles.

As a general rule, eligibility to apply for a DBS check is not based on an applicant's job/role title but by considering the activities and responsibilities of each individual and how often they carry it out. Applying for a DBS check where an individual is not eligible is illegal and would lead to the applicant's data protection rights being Breached. We recommend consulting the government's DBS eligibility guidance before requesting a DBS check for a particular role.

There is significant information about DBS checks, eligibility and the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1974 and the exceptions order which relates to the Act on the DBS and NSPCC websites.

Cycling UK is responsible for deciding whether an applicant is suitable for a role and is also responsible for working out the level of check the role is eligible for. If an individual believes they do meet the criteria which means they should have an enhanced DBS check then they should contact the DSL of Cycling UK.

Applicants cannot apply directly to the DBS for their own standard or enhanced check. The checks must be processed through Cycling UK or a partner agency/organisation

If the criteria for regulated activity have not been met because the frequency test has not been passed an enhanced check can be applied for without the barred list being check. This is known as an enhanced check without the barred list.

Where there is no eligibility for a standard or enhanced check then it is possible for a basic check to be applied for – there are no restrictions on who can apply for this. Applicants can apply for their own basic check via the DBS website. They may also apply via a responsible organisation. Basic checks provide details of unspent convictions only.

If a cycling group is aiming activities specifically at adults at risk, particularly those that involve training, teaching, instructing and supervising them, an enhanced DBS check with barred list check on regular volunteers may be considered.

However, Cycling UK have had confirmation from the Disclosure and Barring Service that most normal group rides are not an activity that would mean that ride leaders are eligible for enhanced DBS checks as unaccompanied children are incidental to the rides.

There is detailed guidance and advice issued by the DBS that may be found at Appendix 7. If you have any queries about eligibility for a DBS check, then contact Cycling UK for advice.

Scotland

Disclosure Scotland deals with criminal records checks in Scotland. There is a Basic check, Standard, Enhanced and membership of the Protected Vulnerable Groups Scheme. For further information on all these it is best to check the Disclosure Scotland website to find out which type of check required and what information this will disclose.

Northern Ireland

As with the other schemes, there is a Basic, Standard and Enhanced check carried out by AccessNI. They all disclose different information and it is important to know which is required for the job being done whether employed or voluntary. The AccessNI website has the most up to date and accurate information and it is best to check there for advice and guidance.
