1 Programme overview:

The purpose of awarding grant funding is to support partners to deliver the Big Bike Revival in the form of local events, that meet the programmes aims and objectives. Big Bike Revival events are designed to inspire a change in cycling behaviour for the target audience of people who do not currently cycle, and the evidenced fix-learn-ride model enables this to happen. Each roll-out period might have a particular focus (see section 2 – Current Focus) but essentially delivery partners are expected to shape the delivery based on a combination of the model. All events must be free to beneficiaries at the point of access.

Fix-learn-ride model

Based on rigorous evidence and validated behaviour change techniques the model informs applicants about the types of events that work best to inspire the target audience. Unless specified, partners are expected to deliver events that focus on the three core elements of fixing bikes, teaching skills and leading rides. Essentially this means fixing unused or broken bikes so they are safe to ride, provide learning sessions such as maintenance workshops or cycle training to upskill people, or offer led rides to build cyclists confidence. These event types are documented in more detail in the event descriptions and include relevant tools, tips, procedures and methods to apply at point of delivery. Briefly the three event types are:

Fix events: Provide services to repair broken bikes and essential checks to ensure bikes are safe to ride.

Learn events: Provide instruction so beneficiaries learn to maintain their own bike or cycle skills training, so people learn how to ride a bike with confidence.

Ride events: Provide led rides for people to practise cycling locally and learn new routes in a social environment.

Target audience

Applicants must demonstrate that they will reach and inspire people who do not currently cycle: people who are either complete beginners or returner cyclists who’ve been out the saddle for many years. This means going above and beyond any regular activity being delivered to reach new people who are not currently engaged. Events must be open to all and where possible partners should engage; people in need in terms of economic, social or health deprivation; people underrepresented in society; people who face challenges or perceived barriers to cycling. This includes, but is not limited to:

- Women
- People on low incomes
- People who identify as belonging to an ethnic minority group
- People not in work
- People not meeting physical activity guidelines
- People with perceived barriers to cycling
Aims & Objectives

Aim:
To make cycling accessible to all and unlock the potential for people who do not currently cycle but would consider either starting or returning to cycling. This supports the Department for Transport’s vision of achieving a step-change in cycling levels.

Objectives:

- Inspire and encourage the large proportion of the population who do not cycle, to start cycling.
- Increase the number of people that cycle by addressing the fact that a high proportion of adults in England own bikes (42%) but are not making use of them.
- Increase the number of trips made by bike by addressing the fact that adults in Britain appear to be aware of cycling and its potential for shorter journeys but have safety concerns about using it as a form of travel.
- To improve the perception of cycling safety by providing opportunities for people to access supported cycling activities, training on how to cycle safely and how to keep bikes in safe working order.

Limitations

For the purpose of meeting the aims and objectives of the programme we are somewhat restricted by our funding obligations. This means there are a few limitations on the type of activity that can be delivered under the Big Bike Revival and recommendations when working with children and young people under 18 years old. These limitations include but are not restricted too:

Children only activities
For the purpose of safeguarding all young people under 18 years old and with the aim to sustain levels of cycling in children, the funding can be awarded to deliver and promote family cycling that includes parents, responsible adults, caregivers over 18 or guardians. It cannot however be awarded to deliver events for the sole purpose of engaging children only.

Regular activity
It is the intention that the funding is used to engage and reach the target audience through delivering events that go above and beyond any regular activity that a partner organisation consistently offers. The funding therefore cannot be awarded to support or sustain any regular and organised activity that occurs as part of a consistent allotted time.

Offering a series of events
Whereby it is reasonable to assume that the target audience require additional activities and support to sustain regular cycling, Big Bike Revival events must be focused on offering one-off activities. Partners interested in offering consistent activities are encouraged to express interest to the team about joining Cycling UKs Community Cycle Club network.

Social events
It is recognised that cycling is a social activity and Cycling UK agrees that an element of being social and promoting a friendly environment can be accepted as an inclusion to an event within reason and at discretion. The funding however cannot be awarded to deliver events that focus solely on promoting a social environment whereby encouraging people to cycle for local journeys becomes less than the primary focus.
Mass participation events
Big Bike Revival events are focused on providing cycling activities that address the local need and are delivered at community level by partners embedded in those environments. The numbers of people attending events are therefore usually low so that individual needs and perceived barriers can be addressed. Plans to deliver large or mass participation events are therefore unsuitable for Big Bike Revival funding.

Motorised travel
One of the programmes objectives is to transform short car journeys into cycling ones. To achieve this means upskilling people with the knowledge of how to cycle confidently on local routes whilst learning how to negotiate perceived barriers and challenges. This means that motorised travel outside of the local area with the aim of taking beneficiaries cycling elsewhere cannot be considered for funding.

Types of cycling
Because the programme is aimed at increasing active travel through encouraging more utility and commuter cycling, and can include leisure cycling, there are limitations around offering events that focus on particular types of cycling. One example of this might be mountain bike rides in a park that are not part of a local community. If you’re unsure whether you can include specific types of cycling in you plan, please contact the team to discuss.

2 Current focus: Winter Roll-out 2021-22

Whilst we have been able to successfully deliver the full FIX-LEARN-RIDE model in the Spring and Summer of 2021, we have seen an increase in demand for learn and led-ride events. We are therefore predominantly focusing our Winter roll-out on delivering learning and riding opportunities from 22 November 2021 through until 31 March 2022.

If you're able to offer these event types, join us and apply to participate in the programme today. To help you prepare your delivery plan, consult our quick event guides. These guides explain the basic outline of each event type including tips and tricks on how to inspire and sustain a change in cycling behaviour.

To support partners to develop their services, Winter Grants can be used to purchase equipment to expand delivery, fund venues to host learning sessions and employ instructors to lead local rides. See section 5 for details on eligible costs and expenditure. We're also offering participating partners the chance to order an all-weather, waterproof professional ‘Surf and Turf Gazebo’ to support the winter roll-out, at no extra cost.
