

Brompton Electric T Line

Brompton has launched two electric versions of its titanium T Line folding bike, a singlespeed (£5,799) and a 4-speed model (£5,999). Both feature the 250W e-Motiq rear hub motor that is now being fitted to the company's cheaper Electric C Line and Electric P Line ranges, instead of the front hub motors they had previously. What you're principally paying for with the Electric T Lines, aside from the iconic, compact fold, is lightness: weights start at 13.5kg, including the battery. brompton.com

ing

cycling, what would you get? Gadgets.

Anything new that comes out for cycling, I love to get and try out. The latest is an electric bike pump.

It's raining: bike, public transport or car? Bike and dress appropriately.

Lycra or normal clothes? Lycra under baggies so I can sit in cafés and pubs without feeling self-conscious.

What's your favourite cycle journey? The next unknown route when trying to find a fun way to a new destination.

What single thing would most improve matters for UK cyclists? People having empathy for other trail (or road) users, be it cyclists, walkers, drivers or horse riders.

Damien Gabet

This August Damien Gabet took an unusual bike tour. "It was 1,044-mile litter pick in the shape of a massive Lucozade bottle," he said. He called it the Lu-Crusade. "According to a study done by Bangor University and Trash Free Trails, the charity I was raising money for, Lucozade bottles are the most commonly found branded item of litter on UK trails. I love a pun.

"Overall I collected just under 2,500 plastic bottles and cans. I was hoping for 5,000 but I was delayed by 17 punctures. The problem was the tyres on my Temu trailer. I spent a lot of my time in the gutter, figuratively and literally, where there's broken glass."

Damien's Lu-Crusade was inspired by the huge volume of litter he encountered on a coast-to-coast walk last year. "There are so many problems in the world that we're constantly exposed to and don't know what to do about," he said. "The simple act of picking up a piece of litter is actually quite empowering."

To donate, visit justgiving.com/crowdfunding/lucrusade.

Your ride

Gravel & Adventure Bike Expo

Get 25% off tickets for the Gravel & Adventure Bike Expo, plus the Adventure Travel Show, at the Business Design Centre in London on 10-11 January. Use code CUK25 for your discounted tickets (normally £11 for adults). Brands exhibiting include Kinesis, Reilly, Surly, Viel, Old Man Mountain and Schwalbe. There will also be chats with Mark Beaumont, Josh Ibbett and others. graveladventurebikeexpo.co.uk