

Stand up for cycling

We're looking for members to join Cycling UK's Board of Trustees. Our trustees play a vital leadership role in shaping the charity's direction and ensuring it enables and inspires people from all backgrounds and abilities to experience cycling's joys and benefits.

Cycling UK is governed by a board of up to 12 trustees. At least eight must be members, elected by the membership, so if you have the skills we're looking for and would like to stand for election this year, please consider applying.

Each trustee serves for a term of three years, up to a maximum of three consecutive terms. All trustees share the same core duties and must act as a group, in the best interests of the charity.

Ben Still (pictured above), became a trustee last year. He explains why he stood: "Because I believe in cycling as a force for good - improving health, happiness and equality - and I wanted to give something back to Cycling UK, an organisation I've been proud to belong to since 1990.

"Cycling has been part of my everyday life since my teenage paper round in north London, and remains my main way of getting to work"

"Cycling has been part of my everyday life since my teenage paper round in north London, and remains my main way of getting to work, to the shops and out into the countryside. Through my career in transport planning and senior roles in central and local government, I've worked on cycle policy, active travel, infrastructure, bike hire and community programmes to encourage cycling.

"Since becoming a trustee, I've really enjoyed supporting the organisation's strategy, contributing my experience of good governance and leadership, and helping turn ambition into practical, value-for-money outcomes that make everyday cycling easier for more people."

Bike Week: a feast of cycling

Bike Week returns from 8-14 June 2026. One of the easiest ways to get involved is by hosting a Bike Week Brunch. It's a relaxed and sociable way to bring people together with coffee and cake, a workplace breakfast or a simple a get-together before a ride. It's all about celebrating cycling, building community and raising funds to support our work.

To get started, head to cyclinguk.org/bikeweek to register and get a free fundraising pack. If you can't host a brunch you can still celebrate Bike Week with a solo or group ride to enjoy the freedom cycling brings.

Let's talk shop

From June, we're expanding the range of products available through the Cycling UK online shop. We'll have merchandise inspired by our Adventure Series routes, along with products that let you show your support for Cycling UK. Proceeds from every purchase support the charity's vital work.
